

A ballast water and invasive species dialogue, convened by the Great Lakes Commission, took place among representatives of the maritime industry, the Great Lakes states, and conservation groups on Feb. 23. The goal of the initiative is to build consensus around policy solutions for preventing the introduction and spread of invasive species via ballast water discharges.

For more information on the meeting, contact Tim Eder: teder@glc.org or 734-971-9135.